THE GREAT ESCAPE

If you are looking for a self-catering stay in Cornwall, then look no further – here are some of the latest options

GET AWAY FROM IT ALL

One of the loveliest new additions to the Cornwall self-catering scene is Pengelly Retreat – a small, but perfectly formed lakeside hideaway comprising a boat house and a yurt, both overlooking the lake. Add to that a secret garden full of winding paths and surprising statues in hidden corners, a rowing boat and SUP boards and you have the perfect location for a romantic escape for two. Keep an eye out for more on this fascinating location in future issues of coast... Prices start from £90 a night in the month of March, go to pengellyretreat.co.uk or call 01736 850225.

NEW SPA GARDEN

From spring 2020, guests at Chapel House boutique hotel in Penzance can enjoy the newly opened spa garden, which has been kitted out with a sauna for six, an outdoor shower, and a hot tub with bird's eye views across the harbour to the iconic Cornish landmark St Michael's Mount. On a summer's evening there's no better place to look up at the clear West Cornwall skies towards the Milky Way. The sheltered plot originally served as Chapel House's kitchen garden, and owner Susan Stuart has been busy replanting and restoring it to its former glory. With a bounty of fruit trees, and vines and wisteria trailing across the trellis, the garden is a beautiful place to relax in after a day out exploring. Stay at Chapel House from £150 per night, on a B&B basis. To book, call 07810 020617 or go to chapelhousepz.co.uk.

VIEWS OF THE SEA

Located above little-known Lundy Bay near Polzeath, Little T is ideal for family downtime. Accessed via a private driveway and surrounded by open countryside, it has uninterrupted views down to the sea and is the perfect base for wild swimming and picnics on the beach. The South West Coast Path is close by too, providing rambles north and south to escape the crowds. Cook dinner on the BBQ and gather around the fire-pit's crackling flames to gaze at the stars. Four bedrooms sleep eight people – drift off for a sound night's sleep and awaken to birdsong. From £4,795 per week, available from July (01208 869090, latitude50.co.uk).

BESIDE THE SEA

The Beach House Company's holiday properties are all less than a mile from sand and sea and located in some of Cornwall's best-loved spots, including Polzeath (Penmorcom from £900 per week) and Mawgan Porth (Tamarisk from £1,560 per week). Choose from modern family homes with mesmerising views, dog-friendly boltholes with hot tubs, or traditional cottages steps from the beach. Beachcombers is just that, a newly refurbished holiday cottage on Gorrán Haven beach. Sleeping eight, it costs from £1,150 for a week's holiday. Part of the Perfect Stays group, The Beach House Company offers a concierge service to help organise days out and days in (01208 814781, thebeachhousecompany.co.uk).
